PROFILE

I'm a highly motivated second-year university student with a passion for full-stack web development. I've built and deployed dynamic web applications that solve real-world problems, gaining expertise in both front-end and back-end technologies. My biggest achievements include creating scalable and efficient projects using frameworks like React and Node.js. With strong problem-solving skills and a drive to learn, I'm excited to contribute to impactful development teams!

EMPLOYMENT HISTORY

Sep 2024 — Present

web development

I'm currently collaborating with an experienced professional, contributing to live web development projects as part of my hands-on experience. This role has allowed me to apply my full-stack development knowledge to real-world applications, while also learning from industry best practices. I've been involved in all stages of the development process, from planning and coding to testing and deploying solutions. Working alongside a mentor, I've gained valuable insights into teamwork, project management, and problem-solving in fast-paced environments, which have further refined my technical and communication skills.
